Role-play and Fantasy-game Adventures are for those who have already seen it all ...

Role games came to Finland in the late 70s. The first Finnish games appeared in the late 80s. There are tabletop and acting games with medieval or future themes.

Each player acts the role given to him/her by the game master (warrior, monster, etc). Larp (live action role play) has become a popular hobby because it combines elements of acting, creative writing and many other creative skills. Besides, it offers freedom to take part in the programme: each player can take a role, very different from that of his/her own self.
